SITUATION

Oaklands Drive car park is located off Oaklands Drive, to the west of Sale town centre. The town itself has grown in popularity by virtue of its excellent transport links via both the M60 (junction 7 is immediately due north of the town) and the Metrolink service available from the town centre to both Altrincham and Manchester city centre. Via the road network, Manchester city centre is approximately 5.5 miles to the north east, whilst Altrincham is approximately 3.2 miles to the south west. The property itself is located on the south side of Oaklands Drive, adjacent to Sale Fire Station.

THE PROPERTY

The property comprises a surface level car park accommodating approximately 74 spaces including three disabled spaces.

The site extends to approximately 0.47 acres (0.19 hectares) and is flat and square in shape. The site is bound by Oaklands Drive to the north east, Oaklands House to the south east, and the access and car park for the former Mecca Bingo to the south west and north west. Access is taken directly from Oaklands Drive close to its junction with Cranleigh Drive.

PLANNING POSITION

The property is under the ownership and jurisdiction of Trafford Borough Council. The site has been operated as a surface car park for multiple years.

The site is located within the boundary of Sale, but falls outside the Sale Town Centre Boundary. Development of the site could take many forms subject to planning consent. A planning brief has been completed by Savills planners and will be made available to interested parties, however Jonathan Ainley is available to discuss in more detail (jainley@savills.com).
